Other

Injury: numerous sprained ankles

Name: Ryan Kalkbrenner

DOB: 1/7/2002

2021 Draft Age: 19.4

Handle: absolutely minimalistic

- + rarely over-dribbled / kept the ball high and away from digs
- + moments of decent perimeter driving

Finishing: flat / very underwhelming / strangely troublesome

- + flashes of coordinated hook shots
- lacked strength in the post / somehow left shots short at the rim / many botched finishes

Decision-Making: immediate / mature / inside-out

- + moved the ball quickly / made immediate outlets and hit-aheads / made immediate kick-outs from the post to shooters or to re-post
- + vision over the defense / made nice high-low passes and entry passes
- + creates good angles in the post for teammates to enter the ball
- + flashes of promising PnR pace

Defense: dominant rim protector

- + great sense of “defensive spacing” / balances multiple responsibilities at times
- + quick “defensive first step” / takes good angles on incoming drivers / keeps everything in front
- + great reach around-the-rim / excellent verticality / keeps hands high / good hand placement on blocks / deterred and influenced shots at times / doesn’t do too much / simply meets players at-the-rim
- + adequate post defense / generally stayed square on the post player / walled up well
- + habitually found a body to box out
- closeouts were somewhat off-balanced / covers ground pretty slowly
- perimeter contests were always just a little late / guards could shoot jumpers over him
